The Heart of Yoga
-T. K. V. Desikachar  1999-03-01
The first yoga text to outline a step-by-step sequence for developing a complete practice according to viniyoga—yoga adapted to the needs of the individual. • A contemporary classic by a world-renowned teacher. • This new edition adds thirty-two poems by Krishnamacharya that capture the essence of his teachings. Sri Tirumalai Krishnamacharya, who lived to be over 100 years old, was one of the greatest yogis of the modern era. Elements of Krishnamacharya’s teaching have become well known around the world through the work of B. K. S. Iyengar, Pattabhi Jois, and Indra Devi, who all studied with Krishnamacharya. Krishnamacharya’s son T. K. V. Desikachar lived and studied under his father all his life and now teaches the full spectrum of Krishnamacharya’s yoga. Desikachar has based his method on Krishnamacharya’s fundamental concept of viniyoga, which maintains that practices must be continually adapted to the individual’s changing needs, abilities, and limitations. This is the first text to outline a complete adaptive approach to yoga, and Desikachar has established the framework for the following generation of yoga teachers. The Heart of Yoga arranges the different parts of the father’s system in an accessible context for the practice of yoga, and Desikachar has provided a program for the practitioner. This context-free, knowledge-oriented approach is designed to assist the yoga teacher in guiding the yoga student to choose the practices that are appropriate for each individual.” After each part of the sequence, Desikachar offers a reflection of the father’s system as well as his own practice approach, which is derived from a “program for the practitioner” that Desikachar and his associates have been using for almost 30 years. Desikachar has also included the important concept of the “yoga of the mind,” which he considers vital to the development of the yoga student. This is a revised edition of The Heart of Yoga.
