English Swahili Dictionary-Wilkiy Seko 2000 Not only is this the most comprehensive English-Swahili dictionary to date (about 60,000 entries) - it is also the first one to include phonetic transcription. It covers all major fields of interest. American pronunciation is shown in cases differing from standard British pronunciation. In other words, this is a book not only for looking up, but also for learning from. Wilkiy Seko has taught at secondary schools in Norway, Germany and Tanzania, and has been compiling a comprehensive selection of dictionaries. This includes English-Norwegian and Norwegian-English dictionaries in both comprehensive and smaller editions.

The Power of Babel-Ali A. Mazrui 1998-03-01 Linguists estimate that there are currently nearly 2,000 languages in Africa, a staggering figure that is believed to be relatively few national languages. While African national languages are being increasingly recognized as languages in their own right, the vast majority of the population is still conducted in the official language of the colonial power – whether ‘arabic’ or ‘english’ – the latter commonly being known as ‘international’ or ‘conversational’. In this book, the author, Ali Mazrui, surveys the linguistic landscape of Africa. It is a story that will appeal to children and adults alike, containing a clear and important message: "Life is not a house of cards, and the world is not a Babel of languages."

Essentials Of Orthopaedics & Applied Physiotherapy-Jayant Joshi 1999 Orthopaedic Physiotherapy is one of the major fields of interest. American pronunciation is shown in cases differing from standard British pronunciation. It plays a vital role in the overall management of patients suffering from musculo-skeletal problems. The book is in six parts and covers the full spectrum of orthopaedics and physiotherapy, but they deal with these subjects as a separate entity. It is not even a single book that provides the overall picture of the full therapeutic management. This book, the first of its kind, fills the gap. The Author - Vija Des J., (Director, Rehabilitation Road, Torna Medical College, Neral, Navi Mumbai,Formerly, Professor of Physiotherapy, Seth S. Medical College, Parel , Mumbai, India).

Language, Communication and Literature in Africa-K. G. Wamitila 1999 Language, Communication and Literature in Africa; part two takes an African perspective on a variety of issues from the linguistically disadvantaged position of women in Africa to the relation of language and settler colonialism; the third section presents a set of regional studies, centering on the Swahili-language's exemplification of the triple heritage. The book provides worked exercises and a rich, detailed glossary and plurals—among others—to offer the rich contextual content of African languages to date.

The River and the Source—Margaret A. Opala 1994 In this novel, won both the Jomo Kenyatta Literature Prize, and the Commonwealth Writers Prize Best First Book in the Africa Region. Now reprinted, it remains in great demand. An epic story spanning centuries, it tells the lives of three generations of women. It traces the story of Akoike in her rich traditional Luo setting, through to the children who live and die in the 20th century.

Juliasi Kaizari (Julius Caesar)—William Shakespeare 2012-03-06 A Kiswahili translation of Julius Caesar. William Shakespeare’s Julius Caesar is the first of his three Roman history plays. Closely based on actual events chronicled in Plutarch’s Lives, this play is the story of the tragic downfall of Caesar and those who conspired against him. Many of Shakespeare’s most memorable lines are found here, in what is considered by some to be the greatest tragedy ever written.

Culture, Performance and Identity. Paths of Communication in Kenya—Kimani Njoo. 2008 Our lives, which are mainly structured according to repeated and socially sanctioned modes of behaviour suggest that human activity is a performance; it is an activity undertaken with a consciousness of itself. We are always aware that someone who has certain expectations about us is watching. In order to satisfy the expectation we behave accordingly. Quite often we are conscious of projecting identity - in politics, in our homes, places of worship, on the street, among colleagues and so on. But how does this happen? This book brings together essays which cover a number of key areas: Gender, Disability, Media, Sports, Literature, Religion, Land and Youth, Music. Through an examination of the situation in Kenya, the essays open new ways of understanding forms of local, national and global identity.

Swahili Beyond the Boundaries Alamin M. Mazrui 2007 Africa is a marriage of cultures: African and Asian, Islamic and Euro-Christian. Nowhere is this fusion more evident than in the formation of Swahili, Eastern Africa’s lingua franca, and its culture. Swahili Beyond the Boundaries: Literature, Language, and Identity addresses the moving frontiers of Swahili literature under the impetus of new waves of globalization in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. These momentous changes have generated much theoretical debate on several literary fronts, as Swahili literature continues to undergo transformation in the mill of human creativity. Swahili literature is a hybrid that is being reconfigured by a conjunction of global and local forces. As the interchange of elements of the colonizer and the colonized, this hybrid formation provides a representation of cultural difference that is said to constitute a "third space," blurring existing boundaries and calling into question established identification categories. This cultural dialectic is clearly evident in the Swahili literary experience as it has evolved in the crucible of the politics of African cultural production. However, Swahili Beyond the Boundaries demonstrates that, from the point of view of Swahili literature, while hybridity evokes endless openness on questions of home and identity, it can simultaneously put closure on specific forms of subjectivity. In the process of this contestation, a new synthesis may be emerging that is poised to subject Swahili literature to new kinds of challenges in the politics of identity, compounded by the dynamics and countermovements of post-Cold War globalization.

Innovation, Networks and Localities—Manfred F Fischer 1998-07-26 The relationship between innovation, networks and localities is of central concern for many nations. However, despite increasing interest in the components of this research triangle, efforts in these fields are hampered by a lack of conceptual and empirical insights. This volume brings together contributions from a distinguished group of scholars working in different but related disciplines, and aims to provide a fresh look at this research triangle. The objective is to offer a concise overview of current developments and insights derived from recent studies in Europe and North America. All of the contributions are based on original research undertaken in the various regions and nations and are published here for the first time. We are grateful to all those who have contributed to this volume for their willingness to participate in the project. Without their co-operation this book would not have been possible. We should like, in addition, to thank Angela Spence for her careful linguistic editing and assistance in co-ordinating the production of the camera ready copy. Lastly, but not least, we wish to express our gratitude for support from our home institutions, and in particular the Austrian Academy of Sciences (Institute for Urban and Regional Research), the Austrian Ministry for Science and Transport, the Syrian Government (Section for Science and Research) and the Federation of Austrian Industry in Syria for the financial backing received. April 1999 Manfred M.
